

When should you see your dentist?

Ask your dentist how often you should see them for a check-up.

Go to your dentist straight away if:

- you have pain in your mouth

- your gums are bleeding

- you have sores, lumps or any patches that are a different colour in your mouth

- If you are worried about your mouth for any reason.

Which dentist can you see?

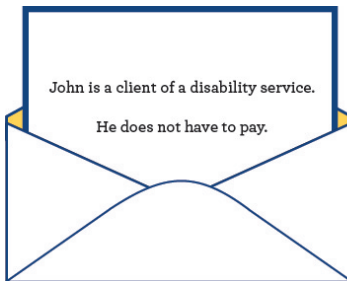

You can go to a public or private dentist.

You can go to a public dentist if you have a:

- healthcare card
- pension concession card.

If you are a client of a disability service, you will not have to pay at a public dentist.

You may need a letter from your disability service. This letter will tell the dentist that you are a client of the disability service.
